

CULTURE

ART // THEATRE // FILM // MUSIC // CLUBS

THREE EXHIBITIONS
TO SEE

1. Before They Pass Away

British photographer Jimmy Nelson spent four years travelling the globe, and his beautiful shots of indigenous tribes and little-known cultures are the result. Nelson's work attracted controversy, after a charity championing the rights of tribal people claimed his images were an unrealistic representation of threatened indigenous communities.

Until January 10

The Empty Quarter, Gate Village, DIFC, Dubai, Sun to Thur 10am to 7pm. Tel: (04) 3231210. Metro: Financial Centre. theemptyquarter.com

2. The World Meets Here

Stéphane Custot has galleries in London and Paris, and now he's bringing his love for 20th Century art to the UAE with his new Custot Gallery Dubai. Its first exhibition will be a mix of fine art and sculptures from artists including British sculptor Marc Quinn and French artist Fabienne Verdier, who will be present on opening night.

January 18 to March 5

🏠 Custot Gallery Dubai, Unit 184, Alserkal Avenue, Dubai, Sat to Thur 10am to 7pm. Tel: (050) 5569797. Taxi: Alserkal Avenue. custotgallerydubai.ae

3. The Place Of Perpetual Undulation

Forget towering skyscrapers and glittering malls, this show by home-grown photographer Reem Falaknaz will give you a whole new perspective on life in the UAE. Focussing mainly on Ras Al Khaimah, Falaknaz's photos show how mass construction has affected the surrounding villages and mountain landscape. Catch her talk on the opening night.

January 7 to 31

🏠 Gulf Photo Plus, Unit D36, Alserkal Avenue, Dubai, Sun to Wed 10am to 7pm, Thur and Sat 10am to 6pm. Tel: (04) 3808545. Taxi: Alserkal Avenue. gulfphotoplus.com

